LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

March 2, 2009 by Skylor

After some changes Senate Bill 43, or Clay's Law, will "amend the Accident and Health Insurance part of the Insurance Code to provide coverage for treatment of autism spectrum disorders." The highlighted provisions will "define terms; require that a health benefit plan shall provide coverage for treatment of autism spectrum disorders; grant rulemaking authority to the Insurance Commissioner; describe minimum coverage amounts and limits for the insurance coverage required by this bill; and provide for annual adjustment of the coverage amounts described previously, based on the Consumer Price Index." The bill passed its third Senate reading and has been introduced in the House.

Its chief sponsor is Howard A. Stephenson of Draper, Utah.
